Big Eyes

When creating my characters, I was inspired by Tim Burton and his movies, The Nightmare Before Christmas, Corpse Bride or Frankenweenie. Tim Burton is an American film director, best known for his quirky, dark interpretations.

What the movies I was inspired by have in common is that they are dark and nightmarish but also innocent and childlike at the same time and the characters are always trying to prove the darkness wrong. And I really like this about his work.

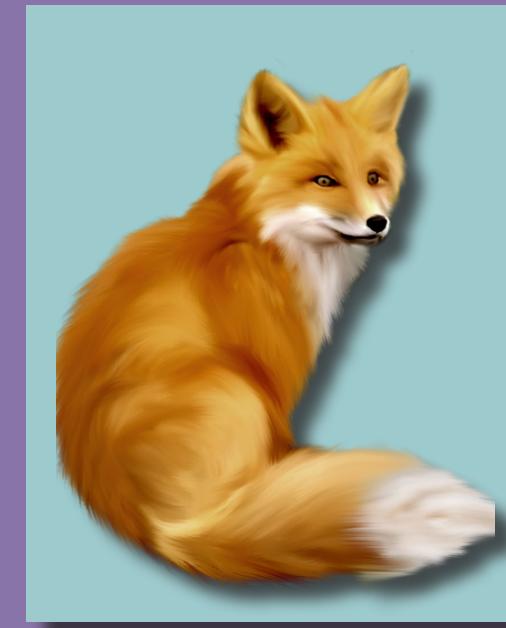

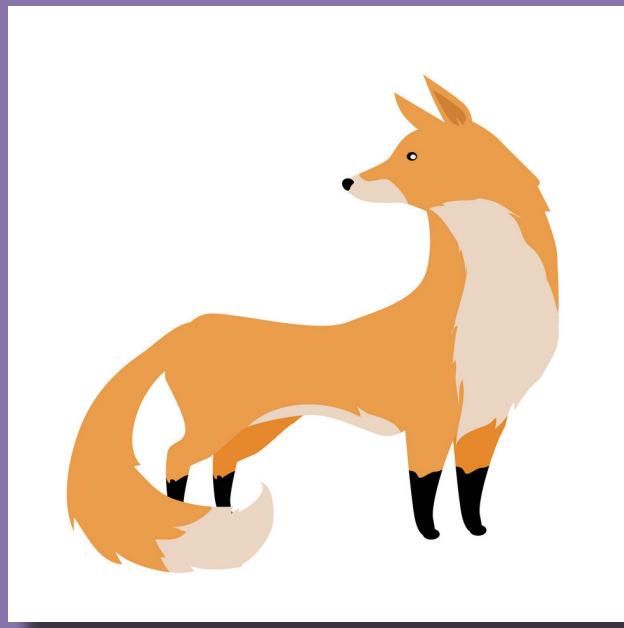

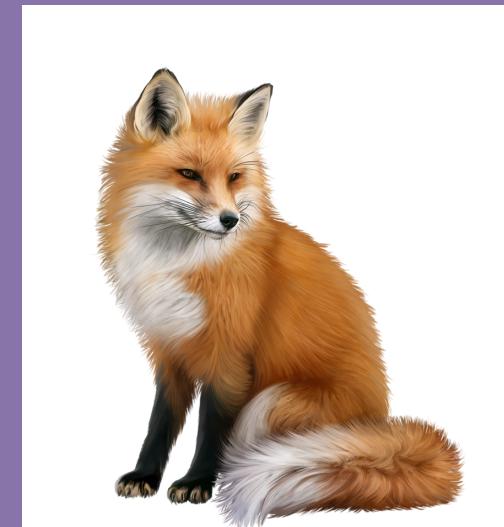

There is a lot of dark colours in his movies. I decided to use different shades of purple and blue, black, white, orange and yellow colour. I think the combination of these colours can create dark and scary atmosphere with some brightens within.

Very significant features for his style are lines and spirals. I decided to use spirals as a key feature for the individual character.

Big eyes and tall thin figures are also very typical for Tim's work. I decided to give my characters bigger eyes, since it gives me a feeling that the characters are afraid of something.
